Types of forest materials

Wood has always been valued in various industries and construction. And, despite the emergence of a variety of materials of artificial origin in the city of Burnie-Somerset, the tree retains its popularity. Winter forest buy. First of all, because of its environmental friendliness. In today's market, forest materials are represented by different types. Each of them has its own characteristics. First of all, timber can be unprocessed and processed. The first are sawn tree trunks with bark, freed from branches and foliage. This includes roundwood (diameter of the top of the cut is greater than 12 cm) and thinner logs. In fact, it is a raw material that the buyer can use for further processing. All that is produced from roundwood, refers to the processed materials. Sawn timber is divided into bars, bars and boards. Each of the varieties can have a different shape and size of the cross section. So, bars can have a square or rectangular shape. Their cross-section varies from 100 to 220 millimeters. There are also two-rolled bars. This is the log that has been cut only two sides. In the process of longitudinal sawing of the bars get bars. They can also have different parameters. The most popular are the bars in sizes 40x40, 50x50 and 40x50 millimeters. Quite often used for the construction of boards. They are chistoprudnyi of equal width and right edges, malwarename with a little wane and neobreznye with raw edges. Boards are divided into thin (TES) in sizes from 16 to 25 mm and thick in 40, 50 and 60 millimeters in thickness. In the course of processing of a log also receive a Croaker. Sell wood logs pine. These are two extreme boards, flat on one side and rounded on the other. No less important in Burnie-Somerset is the quality of wood. There are 5 varieties. The best, of course, are considered to be the first grade timber. And if we are talking about the construction of the object, involving further serious load, it is better to give preference to materials from this category.

Features of popular wood species

For the manufacture of timber in the city of Burnie-Somerset use a variety of wood species. For their production use coniferous and deciduous forests. Depending on the type of wood has its density, texture, hardness and color, as well as a special area of application. To buy a house in the woods. So, pine refers to wood species of medium density. It is characterized by good strength and resistance to rot. Indicators of durability, cleavage, flexibility and elasticity are moderate. Pine wood is quite easy to process and is suitable for both external and internal decoration, as well as for the manufacture of furniture and interior items. Spruce has similar characteristics to the previous breed. It also has good elasticity, flexibility, tear resistant, rot resistant and durable. But spruce wood does not tolerate a sharp change in temperature. It is often used to create musical instruments and decorative objects. Larch has a light, rich in resin, solid wood. It is considered the most durable and durable among conifers. Therefore, it is excellent for construction. Among hardwoods, the most durable I think oak. It has a heavy, viscous wood resistant to rot. Oak is durable, perfectly bends, dries little, perfectly withstands temperature and humidity. Lime wood can be contrasted with oak, and soft. For its processing, a sharp knife or cutter is enough. Therefore, it is so fond of artisans engaged in the manufacture of dishes, decorative items and musical instruments. Sell timber logs lumber. Another popular in Burnie-Somerset breed in the timber market - birch. Its wood is characterized by uniformity and average density. Great for furniture production.
